JSTOR is a digital collection of academic journals, books and primary sources. Much of the material is full text. It covers multiple subject areas including: African American Studies, Art, Art History, Architecture, Economics, Film Studies, Folklore, History, Language, Literature, Political Science, Religion, Sociology and Statistics.

JSTOR is part of our Multi-Search collection but you may also search it as separate database. To search JSTOR as an individual database: select the Databases tab on the library homepage and JSTOR is listed as a separate link.

When you open JSTOR, setup a My JSTOR account by clicking the Login button and register for a JSTOR account.
